The Challenge: Unifying Global Customer Care Operations

Sæla had existing customer service teams spread across the US, Bolivia, and India.

With the goal in mind to become one of the top 10 pest control companies, Sæla knew that they would need an exceptional customer service team to realize this vision.

Recognizing the strategic advantage of consolidating and streamlining their operations in a location that shared their time zone, and cultural nuances, and was within easy reach for in-person management visits, they set their sights on Mexico.

Sæla recognized that achieving this ambitious plan required a trusted partner. They found this in Remote Team Solutions, a nearshore staffing company equipped to help them build, staff, and manage their multidisciplinary team as well as providing office space.

The objective was to establish a robust team in Mexico, readily accessible for on-site visits, to drive rapid growth and elevate their customer experience operations to unprecedented levels.

The Solution: A Dynamic Nearshore Partnership with Remote Team Solutions

Saela and Remote Team Solutions embarked on a trial phase, comprised of four customer service representatives and one team leader. This initial phase swiftly highlighted the invaluable benefits of nearshore operations - geographical proximity, native English proficiency, cultural alignment, and bilingual speakers who could effectively cater to a broader Latino customer base.

As the partnership thrived, Saela recognized Remote Team Solutions as a unique asset, being an agency that consistently exceeded their needs and expectations. The nearshore model emerged as a game-changer, enabling Saela to optimize resources, enhance communication, and uphold exceptional service levels.

Acknowledging the significant value Remote Team Solutions brought to their operations, Saela strategically decided to transition all their remote teams from India and Bolivia, solidifying a lasting partnership with the nearshore experts and expanding their team's roles to encompass all the positions outlined in the introduction.

Remote Team Solutions played a crucial role in propelling Saela's growth trajectory. Their Information Technology and Infrastructure team ensured seamless connectivity, while their support staff facilitated regular visits by Saela's leadership to Mexico, fostering robust relationships and effective communication. Moreover, Remote Team Solutions' HR, Talent Development, and Talent Acquisition teams committed themselves to providing Saela with access to top-tier professionals with native English proficiency.

This partnership allowed Saela to concentrate on their business growth and objectives, while Remote Team Solutions managed critical support functions such as payroll, legal compliance, IT, staffing, and office management, effectively extending Saela's workforce. The HR and Talent Development department at Remote Team Solutions focused their efforts on employee motivation and integration, fostering a collaborative environment and a shared sense of purpose.

They were instrumental in making the team members feel like an integral part of the Saela family. This successful collaboration enabled Saela's leadership to maintain regular, in-person interactions with their team in Mexico, reinforcing strong bonds and fostering effective communication.
